

SMCR HealthCheck

Are You and Your Framework ready to meet the Regulator?

A shift in Compliance goalposts

A year on from Covid and the need for an SMCR Framework, many insurers and brokers are still unsure if their framework is fit for purpose. Poor customer outcomes and a rise in complaints in 2020 has meant that many more firms are seeking reassurance that their control and risk management measures are fit for issues arising in 2021.

The forecasted further increase in poor outcomes means more firms like yours, your senior managers and NED's all face the possibility of regulatory scrutiny. For protection it's critical you can prove your SMCR compliance.

Unprecedented social and economic disruption as a result of the pandemic has had a unique impact on what "reasonable steps" look like for senior managers. The goalposts have shifted suddenly, which means you may not be able to rely on your past experience and current compliance measures.

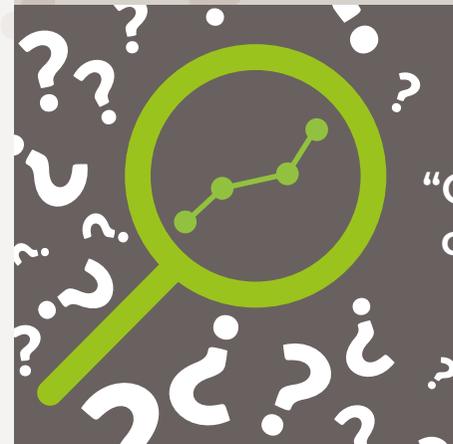

Personal & Corporate Accountability

Accountability is the key issue in any investigation where firms and individuals are found wanting.

It is Your firm and Your senior staff, NOT the Regulator, who is responsible for:

- ✓ approving the competence and good conduct of certified persons
 - ✓ documenting decisions & actions
 - ✓ proving all "reasonable steps" to comply with SMCR have been taken
 - ✓ evidencing compliance
 - ✓ establishing the budget and processes to support compliance

“Questioning and the process of continuous improvement is what SMCR is supposed to encourage.”
